Set in the area of Bloomsbury and surrounded by a vast array of amenities, transport options and UoL member institutions, along with all the literary and academic significance this pocket of London represents.

The closest underground stations are Russell Square and Kings Cross, with numerous bus routes in every direction from stops only a few minutes walk away.

The open-air Brunswick Centre is only 5 minutes away, with its fantastic mix of supermarkets, fashion, health and accessories shops; through to a great variety of restaurants, cafés and the Renoir Cinema for entertainment.

Handel Mansions is surrounded by several green spaces and parks, giving the area a calm and relaxing feel, but with the convenience of the busy shopping areas, landmarks, art and entertainment of Central London being only within a short travel distance away.
The building provides accommodation on all of its 6 levels – basement, ground floor and 4 further upper floors; all connected with a communal stairwell leading to each floor. There is cycle storage within the courtyard between the front and back section of the building, with all other facilities within the flats themselves.

A total of 72 bedrooms in 24 flats, in 2/3/4 bedroom clusters in each flat, depending on flat size – all with shared kitchen, bathroom and toilet. All rooms are single occupancy.
